PROFILE

Frédéric Saulou Design Studio is an independent and multidisciplinary design and consulting agency that considers design as a space for research and exchanges that allows him to develop a sensitive approach to shapes and materials. Experimentation and research take precedence over his work in order to think of new materials and new uses. This accompanies his daily approach so that each project is thought of as a sculpture in its own right between simplicity and technicality. His approach guides him towards a global but also unique approach in his creations, thus creating specific interactions between the user and the object, between crafts and industrial processes.
